ASW Leads West

To start the year, the ASW officers planned the Hello Day Assembly on September 16 which included a slide presentation introducing E-Board, Dance Club, basketball and football teams, with the theme "West . . . Making a Good Thing Better." The traditional Homecoming was filled with events such as the Powder Puff Football game and fence decorating with colored napkins, spray paint and aluminum foil around the football field. For their Halloween special, the ASW officers planned the spinechilling movie "Asylum" in the gym, with many students bringing their bean bag chairs, blankets, pillows, and candy. Under the direction of the ASW officers, clubs worked together during the week of April 24-28 in constructing a frontier town in the gym and planning a dance for Western Roundup, which ended the year's activities

President Directs West's Success

"West, Making a Good Thing Better" was the theme for the 1977-78 year and Mike Roberts, who with a staff of four women, carried out this motto in assemblies, Homecoming, and fence decorating. Mike served in leadership positions in most school activities. He sang bass, starting with junior choir serving as president and then going on to A Cappella. He also loved to act, playing characters like Roy, a financial clerk who is never satisfied in the Odd Couple, to Petruchio, a muscle-bound he-man in Taming of the Shrew. He was also active in advanced debate, Drama Club, and on the sophomore football team. During the year Mike spent many hours on student problems and planning for school activities to promote more student involvement and awareness and to fulfill the E-Board theme of: "West, Making A Good Thing Better."

E-Board

Assemblies, dances, pep rallies and service projects were all on the agenda for this year's Executive-Board. Meeting with Mr. Blackhurst first period, they coordinated activities to bring to life the theme, "West, making a good thing better." Planned and carried out by E-Board to bring spirit to West were the annual E-Board dance at the ZCMI center March 18 and the Western Round-Up April 28 in the gym. Activities scheduled for Homecoming and Spirit weeks included banana stuffs; cider guzzling; 50's, farmers, and grub days; VW stuffs and the powderpuff football game with the juniors beating the seniors for the first time in five years. This E-Board team of eleven men and women started a new tradition for Homecoming, an early morning breakfast for alumni and students.

Seniors Lead the Way

Striving to prove it can be done, the Senior Class Officers compiled the names of the 2,199-member student body. For the first time officers prepared the books for distribution during registration in August. The cover design displayed an old-fashioned telephone with the title "West Directory '78."

During Homecoming week, the Senior Class officers decorated a section of the fence surrounding the football field with a rainbow background. A cap and scroll with the theme "West . . . Making a Better Thing A Lot Better" added the final touches.

Juniors Eye Senior Stardom

"That's the Junior victory cry!"

Juniors, represented by Brian Lloyd, Jeff Thomson and Leslie Newman, sang and shouted this phrase at games and assemblies. They sponsored various lunchtime activities during Homecoming Week, October 10-14, featuring a dunking machine. Victims, including Studentbody President Mike Roberts, had to sit calmly over a bath of cold water while participants attempted to dip them.

Junior organizations sponsored various dances including the Junior Prom February 11 at the Prudential Plaza and the Christmas Dance by the Pep Club on December 17 in the Capitol Rotunda.

In sports, the Junior Powder Puff football team dealt a crushing blow to the Seniors in a game ending with the score 20-12 held on October 14 for Homecoming festivities.

Junior Choir, under the direction of Mr. James Maher, sang songs at many of Utah's malls for the Christmas season as well as in the Tabernacle for the Christmas Songfest to turn on the lights for holiday festivities.

Freshmen Leaders Spread Spirit

"Hard work and fair play" was the motto of West's third Freshman class president Jack Burbidge, who worked with the F-Board to exert ideas and raise spirit. Julie Finley as vice president and Emily Archuleta as secretary shared Jack's responsibilities. They started the year's activities in the traditional fence decorating for Homecoming. The fence was red and white, featuring West and Granite football helmets. The class officers also participated in the annual E-Board Sub-for Santa program.

On November 16 and 17 all Freshmen took the Sobar Test that judged their reading level. Many read books like Where the Red Fern Grows, Romeo and Juliet, and The Good Earth. Besides English, geography and learning West High traditions occupied Freshmen minds this year.

Panther kittens had their first taste of high school social life with the year's opening stomp and cheered their first football game against Layton. The class of '81 pursued "hard work and fair play" at West.

When Dr. Fowler came to West High four years ago, he asked himself if he would enjoy West High as a student. To do this, he visited the three other schools in the Salt Lake District to see if West matched up to them. Then he took some pictures of these schools' facilities and compared them with our school. After this, a group of teachers and parents from the community went to the Board of Education to get a grant to remodel. From a grant of $300,000 the Board provided West with new ceiling tile for the halls, carpet wainscoting for the walls, and terrazo to replace the dark green linoleum hall floors. Dr. Fowler was also successful in obtaining $3 million to build a new gymnasium, which will be completed by October, 1978.

During the year Dr. Fowler attended a work shop in Vail, Colorado, where he and six West faculty members and representatives from many other schools discussed areas of concern. They were positive discipline to improve the student's self image, improvement of teachers' feelings about teaching and their teaching ability, and involvement of more students in school government. In doing these things Dr. Fowler aimed to, as Mike Roberts said, "Make a good thing better!"

Mr. Roger Tucker enjoys his work and new office. He's happy and smiling

Mr. Robert Blackhurst accompanied Dr. Fowler to the Vail, Colorado work shop this year where they discussed the possibilities of involving more students in school activities. To do this Mr. Blackhurst helped the student body presidency to plan a number of assemblies and stumps throughout the year, such as the Navy stage band, the Homecoming assembly and dance, and the Hello Day stomp, to involve more students.

Sitting behind the desk in his new office, Mr. Ralph O'Brien stated, "I want to be of help in any way I can." As assistant principal, Mr. O'Brien worked with faculty and students in the organization of yearly curriculum and class schedules. He counseled and advised students to enroll them in classes of a beneficial nature. He also worked with seniors, helping them to advance towards graduation.

Skier, golfer, attendant of the soda pop machine in the faculty room, Mr. Roger Tucker was active this year. He was in charge of discipline and attendance for 9th and 10th graders. He also supervised all the lunches and frequently patrolled the halls sending students back to class. Mr. Tucker lent specialist ears to 9th grade problems. Asked about how he felt about West, he replied, "West is a great school and I enjoy working here."

To help students identify meaningful goals the counselors encouraged all students to take advantage of vocational and academic classes in their high school years. A full-time secretary, paneled rooms and orange carpeting was the setting of the five counselors located in their new offices on the second floor. Over 5,000 program changes plagued the counselors year round. With the help of Teri Holleran and her two assistants, Kathy Green and Lon Hargraves, the UP Program began its second year with an expansion to four periods which included over 40 students. Sitting on large pillows and green carpeting was the atmosphere for the UP Program in Room 216. Their goals were to understand self awareness in themselves and interpersonal communications with others.

The secretaries enjoyed remodeled offices and new positions this year. In the personnel office Margaret Bain replaced Mrs. DeLaMare who switched to keeper of computer records. Two Dutch windows faced the hallway through which students could get office help. Mrs. Philbrick, the head secretary, kept the office happy with smiles and encouragement of hard work while Mrs. McDermid assisted students in the CDC. In the bookstore, Mrs. Bisignano sold pencils, books, pom poms, football jerseys and who-knows-what-other neat stuff. Mrs. Sacco talked to the teachers over the P.A. with inquisitive questions of students' whereabouts. Mrs. Butler handled money matters in the ASW office with expertise and joviality. Mrs. Coates was very assistive in the office with requests for supplies. This team was one of the best at West.

$3 Million Gymnasium Emerges

Bright yellow or orange lockers, wall to wall carpeting in offices and refrigerated drinking fountains represented much of the remodeling done this year. Counselors, administrators, and secretaries enjoyed renovated and relocated offices. Dr. Fowler's office received enlargement, paneling and brown carpeting. All three assistant principals' new offices moved down the hall to be approached from the Personnel office. Orange and brown carpet wainscoting outlined with orange or gold borders, brightened the main hall. New acoustic ceiling tile illuminated the halls, which were lined with new brighter fluorescent lights. Solarian floors replaced the battle-scarred, dark green battleship linoleum. Suspended lights along with the freshly painted details in gold and light blue lightened the main entry. The renovation added new touches to the school and West's historic building.

Custodians worked throughout the day and into the evening to "make a good thing better" by keeping the halls and classrooms clean and in repair.

Thanks to the custodial staff, students come to clean lockers each morning.

An artist's conception of West High's new 3 million dollar gymnasium which will double the seating capacity of the old gym and open in 1978

From Large Pit, Parking Lot

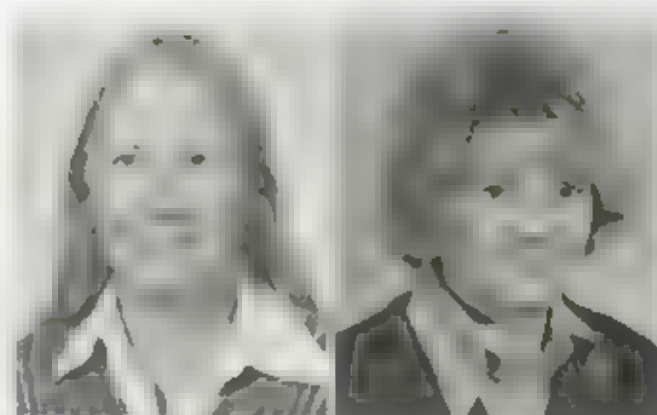

The Salt Lake City Board of Education approved the final plans for a new 2.8 million dollar gymnasium for West High School on Tuesday, September 20, 1977. Dan S. Bushnell, Board president, said the old gym had become inadequate, particularly since federal regulation mandate greatly increased athletic and physical education activities for girls. Elden Talbot, architect from the firm in charge of the project, presented plans for the new gym which the Board approved unanimously. The new facility, to be used in addition to the present gym, will be located west of the LDS Seminary. It should be completed for use by the commencement of the school year of '78-'79.

Where can you find cities such as Toronto, Dern, Blood, Bamberger, Argonne, Midway and Trenton? Each June these cities, and others, can be located at either Utah State University in Logan or Southern Utah State College in Cedar City. The reason? These are just some of the cities of two mythical states known as Girls' and Boys' State. The American Legion selected junior students to represent West, June 4-11. Mike Roberts, Wayne Dial, Jody Hall, Dave Senior, Jonathan Bittner, Steve Carman, Vicky Fechner, Lorn Kocinski and Sue Shingleton joined other Utah high school representatives to organize and run a new state. Two parties were developed and participants either campaigned themselves or supported the candidates of their choice. Mock elections with authentic polls added a touch of realism as Girl and Boy States voted for city, county and state officials, which included everything from governor to dog catcher. Campaigns, speeches, assemblies and skits helped each individual to gain a firmer knowledge of the United States government.

West's Sterling Scholars

Sponsors Desert News and KSL radio and television received the names and pictures of the twelve Sterling Scholars from West on February 13. March 10 found the Sterling Scholars from throughout the state submitting their 35-page portfolios which included letters of recommendation, personal merits and awards, and forms from department heads and Dr. Fowler.

Interviews on April 5 led to choosing ten semifinalists using a 100-point system. Fifty percent counted on grades and performances while the other 50% included citizenship and leadership. Chosen in each department, the two runner-ups received $100 and the winner $250.

Mark Wippe and Lisa Evans convey the importance of English by being silent as they give to Miss Hultner's English assignment.

A quiet library and an English assignment assure a good sleep.

The spectrum of English branched from classics to language, writing and modern drama. Some of the books covered were Homer's The Iliad and The Odyssey, Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice and A Midsummers Nights Dream, and more modern books like Black Boy, and The Heart of Darkness. The Junior Honors classes stressed improving their knowledge of proper punctuation by working their way through a work book called English the Easy Way, which taught them how to use the semi-colon, where to use capital letters, and what is the difference between an adjective and an adverb. In short, English endeavored to give its students a well rounded background in English by providing literary and language experience.

The Social Studies program at West consisted of sociology, psychology, survey of law, and world and US history. The Sociology classes watched films like "The Glass House" and the NBC documentary film, "Crime in America." They also took their annual tour of the Utah State Prison. The history classes watched films like "Cleopatra" and "Ben Hur" along with their assignments and homework. At the end of the year the AP American History classes could take the AP exam and if they scored high enough the tests could count for credit at many major colleges. AP students also had a term paper due at the end of each term which was worth one-third of the total grade. The survey of law classes studied issues like capital punishment and the pros and cons of other controversies.

Math ranged from survival math and pre-algebra to trigonometry and calculus. Teachers stressed the importance of math skills in everyday life.

"Dreams, realities, and hopes" of students was the theme for the 77-78 yearbook. It was one of the main topics going through the Panther staff's minds as they prepared the yearbook for the studentbody in June. The editors handled the 216 page edition of the Panther at an average of 32 pages per deadline which they sent to the Taylor Publishing Company in Covina, California, for a total of six deadlines. The photographers took pictures of clubs, sports, and class officers, while the copywriters counted picas and lines to see how many spaces they had to fill describing some student reading a book or running around the gym. All this was done to bring you a yearbook that you will be proud of

Some Off-columnist Cheryl Anderson expresses her views

What was red and black and read all over the halls of West High every month? Need a hint? It couldn't be classified as a sunburned panther, although it did enjoy a good "sound-off" now and then figured it out yet? If you have deciphered this ridiculous riddle, then you know the topic on which we speak is Red and Black, West's very own newspaper.

If you needed any information on extra-curricular activities or events, Red and Black was the paper to read. This year's paper was increased to six pages of articles, photographs and advertisements. At football, basketball and volleyball games, at debate tournaments, play rehearsals and State activities, photographers from Red and Black flashed cameras, while reporters, pads and pencils in hand, waited to jot down any interesting information. The staff of Red and Black, from typists to editors, worked to keep the student-body of West High informed and up-to-date.

West Winds Reviews Submissions

Deep silence pervaded room 307 as the creative writers of West High gathered to pool their thoughts and produce a literary magazine of profound inspiration. Under the leadership of Mrs. Barbara McLaughlin, the staff of West Winds worked to compile the variety of short stories, poetry, photographs, and artwork submitted by individual students. After publication, students, teachers and parents bought the magazine.

Becky reads over literary submissions.

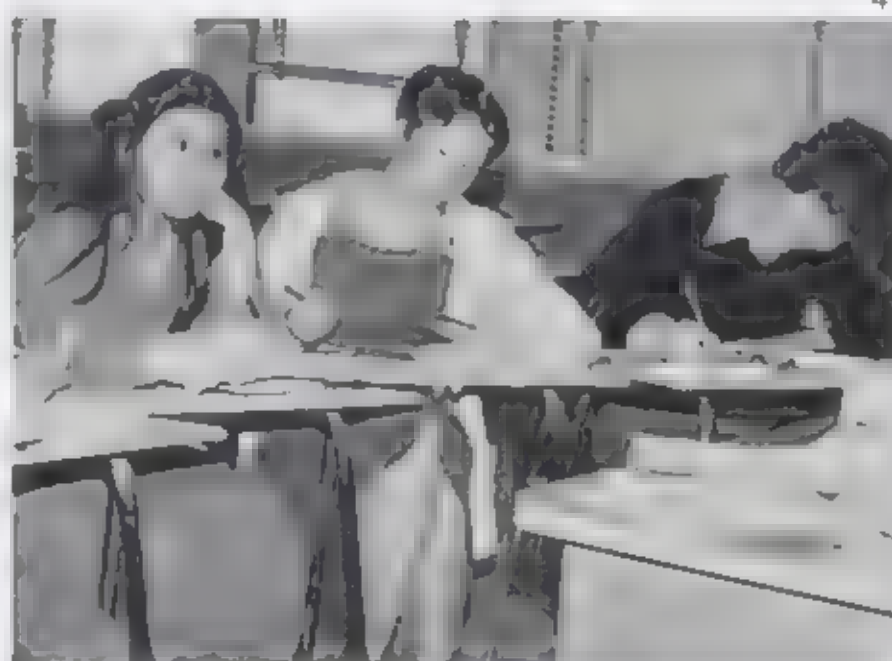

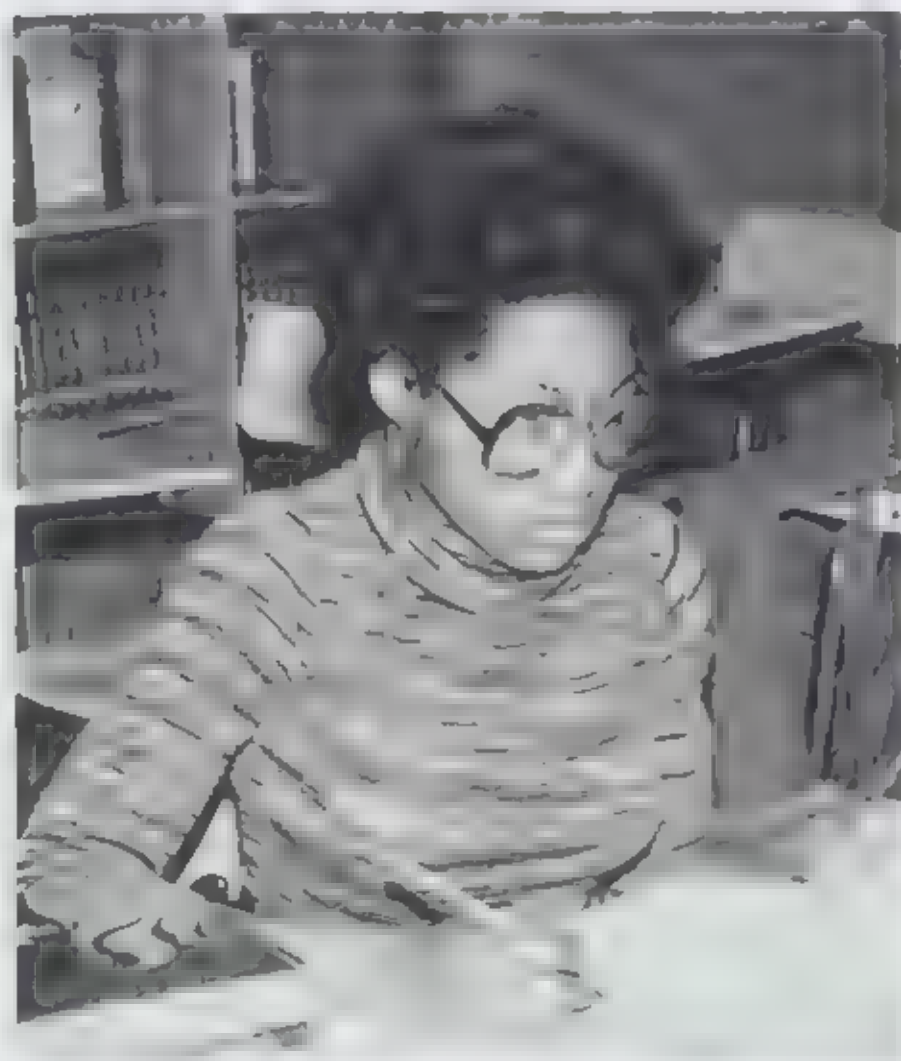

Lon studiously contemplates a group of poems.

Creativity Lives In West Winds

1 Tori and Sunny discuss the fundamentals of poetry. 2 Pen poised and waiting for the pieces of creativity to bubble forth a West Winds poet sprints to reflect. 3 Too busy to notice the yearbook photographer, these poets were furious. 4 The staff of West Winds work together to produce the annual literary magazine.

Debators Manipulate Language

Rebecca expresses her feelings toward Michelle's viewpoint on medical care

"There exists within the status quo, an attitudinal inherent barrier which the negative team presumes is the causal link to our prima facie case . . ." Strange argon for a high school student? Not for a West High Debator! West's team structured their strategy around this year's resolution, "Resolved: That the federal government should provide comprehensive medical care for all citizens of the United States." The debate team traveled to many tournaments within Utah to compete against teams from as far away as California and Arizona

Students Go to Uppers for Help

A student with personal problems consults Upper Ann Pritchett in a comfortable spot on the carpet. The UP Program is for you.

Ever needed counseling, advice, or just a sympathetic, friendly shoulder? Ever wanted to confide a problem to a person your own age but could just never locate that person? West offered a special, new program to supply that very need — the need to feel secure about confiding your feelings. Understanding People, UP was a peer counseling program created by Teri Holleran, Mrs. Kathy Green and Mrs. Lori Hargraves, counselors at West, training students to listen to the problems of fellow classmates.

Cheerleaders

West's Cheerleaders were different this year: there were six instead of eight and they were all girls. But what they lacked in numbers they made up for in spirit and looks. They met during the summer, and from July 9 to 14, they also went to Utah State for a cheerleading clinic at which they gained new ideas and learned new cheers for pep assemblies. While at the clinic they showed West's superiority by winning two superior ribbons, two excellent ribbons and the spirit award for their achievements in contests and over-all enthusiasm. In August, the girls started meeting every morning from six to eight o'clock to get ready for the coming school year. Even after school started, they kept meeting early in the morning as well as in 7th period. They used the early mornings to work with Pep Club for pep assemblies and activities for Spirit Week.

No make up either, no eye makeup are the only things to see a team

Swinging pompons and 59 girls were the scene every morning from five to seven o'clock from the beginning of August to prepare for their presentation march in September. The Pep Club supported the sports activities by team treating to arouse the team's morale for upcoming games. The Pep Club also treated the football and the basketball teams to a banquet at the end of the seasons. During December they planned the Christmas dance "You Light Up My Life." in the Capitol Rotunda. The Club also participated in teas with other schools from the region.

Red skirts, black nylons, and shiny black boots were the uniform for West's marchers who made up the Drill Team. These girls practiced early in June preparing for the work shop at Utah State, July 12-15. In August they met every morning at 6:30, putting the final touches to their almost mechanical movements, precision marching and, most important of all their splits. By the time school started they had everything set for their first presentation and half-time entertainment at home football and basketball games. On January 28 they went to the state drill meet at Orem High.

Dance Club took part in many activities this year besides the annual dance concert. They performed in a pep assembly with music from a number in West Side Story. Next, a group of dancers from the Club helped with the production of "Fiddler on the Roof." Then the event of the year for Dance Club came, the concert on March 21 and 22. After the concert the Club took groups to the junior highs in the area to arouse interest in Dance Club for next year. Later they participated in an exchange program with other schools to learn different techniques. In addition to this they sponsored master classes to which students from the University of Utah came to talk about dance as a major

The Future Business Leaders of America labored this year with fund raising projects, attending leadership conferences, and developing an understanding of the free enterprise system through guest speakers and movies.

Comprised of officer workshops, guest speakers and movies, the fall Leadership Conference began on April 18 at Snowbird Resort with representation from 44 high schools in Utah. Representatives from West were President Carol Bordelon and Secretary Shelly Katsos.

A membership drive began during registration and continued through the year reaching a goal of 67 members. The induction new members and the installation of officers, held on October 19, inspired FBLA members to understand more about their Club. Speakers on the meaning of FBLA were Dee Ann Simmons who described Future; Linda Savage — Business; Terri Copenhaver — Leaders; and Julie Anderson — America.

The Hotel Utah was the setting for the Western Regional Conference including FBLA members from the Western states. The workshop, held on November 17-19, consisted of speakers, demonstrations on parliamentary procedure, and a formal banquet.

In tuxedos of black and long formalts of wine, they sang before groups such as the Kiwanis Club, the Salt Lake Jay-Dees and the honored guests at a reception held for Governor Scott Matheson at the Capitol.

During the month of December alone, the Chorale gave sixty-five performances at varied locations around the Salt Lake area. They entertained shoppers at the Z.C.M.I., Cottonwood, Valley Fair and Fashion Place malls and sang in the corridors of the Primary Children's, Holy Cross, and University hospitals. Fill Our Stage With Sound, Light

The Sound and Light Crew, under the direction of Mr. Fisher, spent many hours before and after school preparing technical effects for school activities. They worked on such events as pep assemblies and the Navy Stage Band; there were also the after-school performances: the school play, "You Can't Take It With You;" the musical, "A Fiddler on the Roof;" the annual dance concert; and the Halloween movie, "Asylum."

The Sound and Light crew acquired some equipment improvements. They received a new sounds system which included a turn table, a cassette tape deck and a reel-to-reel tape recorder; they also received a new light panel which they have been waiting for for two years enabling them to make more and faster light changes. These improvements will help to enlarge their working capacity and efficiency, truly symbolizing "West making a good thing better."

Bob Green learns the hard technology of removing the mike

Sheridan Prince, WHTV Morning News advisor, worked with a ten-member crew during first period to gather information to air during the advisory period. Anchorman Richard Phillips, along with co-anchor persons Curtis Mortensen and Vicky Fechner, announced news and sports from typewritten scripts, and the "We'll return right after this" was a cue for the production staff to switch to the pre-recorded commercials on upcoming special events, such as stomps, dances, fund-raising projects, and T-shirt sales.

The requirements to join the WHTV News crew included one semester of TV journalism and one semester of Red and Black. They closed with, "That's all the news for today and we'll see you again tomorrow."

An applicant must have an average of four academic classes per term beginning in ninth grade, with a 3.5 or higher GPA, and satisfactory citizenship.

Supervised by Mr. Lloyd Coates, the new 25-member French Club started the year with decorating a section of the fence surrounding the football field for Homecoming. Red and Black crepe paper, a "fleur de lis" (lily), and "French Club" in bold letters comprised the fence.

A Hello party, which included French Games, playing records, on October 1, introduced members to each other.

On December 15, a dinner at the Max Mercier, La Parisian acquainted members with French foods.

Beating brains out on the bucking sled, stretching muscles, running, drilling draw plays, quarterback sneaking, guzzling Gatorade, dirtying jerseys, injuring knees, chewing mouthguards, earning hatchets, crashing helmets, striving for the goal line, and going for the gusto were many of the activities and doings of this year's Varsity Football team. The Panther Pack, coached by Gene Plaga, tackled 4A teams every Friday on the old green and white gridiron. The Varsity team had quite a few close games, including two overtimes of which one was the Homecoming game and the other was against Cottonwood. The players started practices in the middle of summer with some of them lasting up to four hours. The '78 Varsity added excitement and suspense to the year by their close games.

The Sophomore football team, under the direction of the new coach, Mr. Michael Reardon, had their taste of high school competition. The rookies usually played two days before the Varsity game. The Sophomores also donned the short hair style of the season. They learned many new playing techniques and aspired to participate in Varsity football action. The Sophomore team gained a log of mileage toward the goal of state champions in their senior year of 1980.

Basketball Plays '78

When the Panther Basketball team went to State, this was the reward for the long hours put in by the team. They started practices at the beginning of the 7th period, often working until 5 and 7 o'clock at night. At the beginning of the season, West tied with Highland for first place in Region 3 with a three win, one loss record. Then the team had three consecutive losses, one being an overtime-time loss by two points and the others fairly close. Towards the end of the season, prospects for State started looking up for the team when they took fifth place in Region by beating Skyline and Granite, and combined with Cottonwood's loss to East, these games cinched a State tournament playoff berth at the University of Utah with a Region record of six wins, six losses. The first game with Roy High saw West leading by as many as eight points. Then some very questionable calls gave Roy the momentum and West eventually lost 52-49 with the last three minutes being the deciding factor. Finally Clearfield doused West's tournament hopes with a second and final loss. However, the Region comeback that the team made was a fine example of the energy and vitality that the team had during the '78 season.

With the popularity of soccer sweeping across the country, autumn was the season for practices to begin for West's Soccer Team. To build coordination, exercises in kicking, blocking, dribbling and bouncing the ball with the head occupied the JV and Varsity soccer teams. The teams practiced at Riverside Park every day after school. With the supervision of Mr. Bill Kershaw, the Soccer Team battled their way through Regional meets starting in February on Tuesday and Fridays in the surrounding city parks and worked toward the State Tournament in May.

Jumping over hurdles, throwing the javelin, vaulting, broad-jumping, and running the track occupied thirty Track Team members for all three divisions: Varsity, JV, and sophomores. The team started out early with practices seventh period until 4:00 p.m. Their first match was the BYU indoor track meet on March 18. Five dual meets followed to prepare runners for the season's races. These started on April 15 and consisted of five invitationals with schools in region III. The season ended with the State meets, May 19 and 20.

Four-score and seven laps ago, our forefathers founded an organization of "breath-taking" significance. This organization—the Cross Country Team, worked to break long distance records in the three mile run and other marathons.

Dances added "a touch of class to make a good thing better" WAG sponsored the Homecoming Dance, "Memories," on October 15 when couples socialized in the brown and beige decorated cafeteria. With holiday spirit, twosomes attended the Christmas Dance on December 17 in the Capitol Rotunda. The Pep Club presented the dance and theme of "You Light Up My Life." Later the Junior class held the Junior Prom at the Hotel Utah Grand Ballroom on February 25 with the theme, "The Hands of Time." "Could It Be Magic" was the theme, the Capitol Rotunda the place, and March 18 was the day for the E-Board Dance. Then on April 28 folks got on their duds and giddy — upped to the Western Round Up in the West Gym Corral. On June 7, the seniors bade farewell at the Graduation dance, closing the year of '78 Dances, which made "a good thing better."

Farmer's and grub days, cider-guzzling, jump-roping, egg-throwing, and the VW stuff occupied Panthers with traditional school activities during Homecoming Week October 10-14. Pep Club and La Raza Unida tied for first in the fence decorating contest, which included colored napkins, spray paint and aluminum foil. Annual rivals, senior and junior class girls, battled in the annual powder puff football game. The juniors pulled away the victors with the help of their "Alice Special," by 26-20

A new tradition started by the senior class officers was the early morning breakfast. Alumni and students gathered on the morning of October 12 for this event of pancakes, eggs, and bacon

A white-gloved Pep Club cheered on West's football team, but Granite's hold was too tight and were the victor in overtime at West's Homecoming game by 27-20

SPIRIT WEEK

Spirit Week started mid-week on March 1. The first day was 50's day with the annual sock hop in the cafeteria. The winners for the best costumes were Karen Grant and Richard Cazier. Next came kiddie day and ice cream eating contests with best costumes awards going to Glen Schultz and Lori Stephenson. With Friday came the Freak-n-Grub day and a tug-a-war between the grades in the gym with Richard Cazier and Jay Lynn Roller wearing the best freak costume. Later that evening Panthers crowded into the gym to watch "Ode to Billy Joe." Monday was crazy-hat-n-sock day with the VW stuff in the parking lot. Then on March 7 there was the Spirit Week assembly at which studentbody officers announced the seniors the winning class

Assemblies Entertain, Raise Hopes

Tom Hewison drums his way into the hearts of fickle females and entertains the attentive studentbody in an assembly with the jazz band.

Concentration and pride combine as Julene leads the "Victory Song."

Assemblies came to you through the efforts of Mr. Blackhurst and the cheerleaders. Mr. Blackhurst arranged such assemblies as the Navy Stage Band and John Goddard. He also collaborated with the cheerleaders and E Board to bring about assemblies for Hello Day, Homecoming, Christmas, Pride Week, and Spirit Week. Meanwhile, the cheerleaders also devoted their time to Pep Assemblies, which basically fell into their hands and the Pep Club. Some of these skits were take-offs on "Batman and Robin," "Farmer Brown and Betsy" and "A Man by the Name of J.C. Penny." These skits and many like them aimed to encourage improved attendance at football and basketball games.

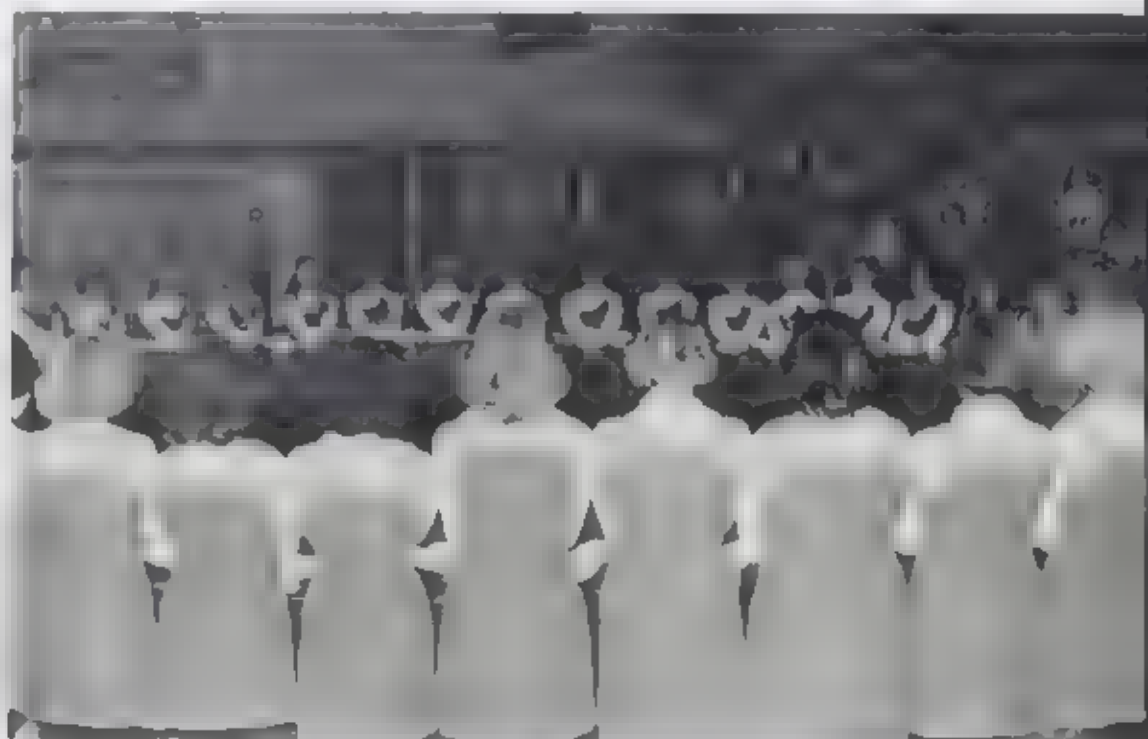

With arms extended, the cheerleaders arouse studentbody enthusiasm for a victory at a pep assembly.

Spirit for Panther Victories

Since when cheerleaders have legs it is called cheer. They look more like Pep Club to me.

What if the secret could erase such a year? Only Sandy knows.

A solemn cheer and a song help new Pep Club salute the coming year.

"Well, your chances for State are a million to one, and the odds 'll be higher when we get done!" shouted the Pep Club. West had two teams travel to State tournaments: the Girls' Volleyball Team, coached by Miss Jane Hughes and Miss Marie Green, and the Basketball Team, staffed by Coach Clark Godfrey. The Volleyball Team went all the way to take first place and bring home a huge trophy. The Basketball Team, however, lost to Roy in the first game, and Clearfield in their second.

FIDDLLER ON

THE ROOF

Take it, it's very good. I think it's by a Jew.

Peasants Chava and Hodel pause in their work to gaze ahead.

Hodel explains: In the outside world people look at each other.

When their traditions died and the fiddler fell off the roof, the Jewish peasants of Anatevka knew it was time to take leave of their lifetime home.

West's production of "Fiddler on the Roof" played February 16-18, and was one of the biggest stage musicals ever produced by a West High drama organization. Directed by Miss Jill German, the musical starred Micheal Roberts as Tevye and Corinne Civish as Golde. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Darol Denison, and the Chorale, under the direction of Mr. James Maher, provided the musical aspect.

In Memoriam

Since you left
I feel that the light is not extinguished, but the lamp is put out because the dawn has come

I have never missed you more.
The valley looks barren.
the horizon grows dim.
but the mountains
still remain

You know the sun
when you see it shines high and that one door has closed
while another opens

AS TIME GOES ON

"We'll sing our praise and voices raise to West - Our Alma Mater"

As the school year came to an end, Panthers took off for the annual Lagoon Day, June 2. The Seniors then practiced for graduation, preparing to say good-bye to high school and hello to college life and job hunting. After the ceremonies on June 7 at the Tabernacle, the seniors headed to the Graduation Dance at Memorial House. Then for the last two days students made for the halls and the lawn to sign yearbooks.

After a while, the floors get hard so Panthers head for the lawn.

Is this your yearbook? Then, who did that other one belong to?

Striving for our goal of perfection, we found ourselves in trying times. We were caught in the middle, but we never gave up. We had but always trying to make the best of what we had. We are proud of what we have accomplished. Through a lot of hard work and effort, we have made our book.

Our goal, which seemed impossible, was finally achieved. Thanks to our great staff, whose help and support made it possible to complete this book. Also we express sincere thanks to our sponsors and Taylor Publishing representative. We think it is a terrific

We would especially like to thank Tom Hartvigsen, artist and photographer.

We give a part of ourselves to you through this book. We hope that you enjoy it throughout the coming years. We give it to you as a gift.

Best wishes to the student body and our thanks to all who helped make this possible.
